

Donovan's Academy for Those with Special Gifts

Thank you for your recent application to join my academy. We are taught from a young age that every person is special. This means, somewhat counter-intuitively, that it takes real courage to believe that we truly have a gift worth giving to this world. In sending your application, you have chosen to believe just that about yourself. I am proud of you for that, as you should be of yourself.

Without causing you any additional anticipation, your application to has been accepted. Let me be the first to welcome you to the student body of Donovan's Academy for Those with Special Gifts.

As with all experiences worth having, your tenure here will be full of challenges. The coursework is advanced, the expectations high, and the stakes are nothing less than your personal future. Daunting, perhaps, but it is life nonetheless.

Over the coming weeks, we'll send you all the necessary paperwork, all the boring details you'll need before you begin attending my academy. For now, be proud of yourself. Very few have been given the opportunities you'll find within the halls of this school.

Every person who passes through our lives gives us a gift. It is our goal as your faculty to help you to make the gifts that you have to share with the world better, brighter, and bolder. Ultimately, however you are the only one who can decide what those gifts are and how to make them the best they can be.

I look with great anticipation to your joining us. I promise you, this will be a great adventure, and I'm honored that you have given us the chance to share it with you.

Yours Sincerely,

Doctor Dalton Donovan

Founder, Principal, and Headmaster
